DPNS HEALTH AND SAFETY POLICY

The Board and Association of Davis Parent Nursery School is concerned about the health and safety of all of our students. It is critical that directors be informed about any health or safety issues pertaining to either the working adults and/or their enrolled child(ren).

We are aware that individuals can have food and other allergies. Some of these allergies may be life threatening. It is the responsibility of the PARENT to make the director aware of any and all allergies they or their child might have and of the proper treatment should that individual be exposed to the allergen. This must be submitted in writing to the director prior to the individual attending class. Further, if an epi-pen is required, the family must provide two pens to the director in advance of the individual attending school or any other function on campus.

Should an enrolled student (adult or child) have a life threatening food allergy, that student shall not participate in the regular session snack, but rather the family shall be responsible for providing an alternate snack for themselves or their child. DPNS will make an effort to keep those life threatening foods out of the affected site; however, with both rotating session purchasers and working parents, DPNS cannot be responsible for guaranteeing that these items will never be present on campus.

IMPORTANT

Parents and parents of students with allergies or any other health conditions that may affect their safety or that of others at the school MUST participate in a pre-attendance conference with their director before their first school day at DPNS each year. Students who add midyear must submit their paperwork for review by the director and, if indicated, must schedule a meeting with the director prior to actual attendance.

Parents should also notify and confer with directors should their own or their child's health status change throughout the year.

Please Complete

I have read and understand the health and safety policy of Davis Parent Nursery School.
